Are you caring for someone with memory loss who could benefit from social interaction?

"It is very important that the person with Alzheimer's disease be engaged in routine activities that provide meaning and socialization. Providing this level of mental engagement can be difficult for one caregiver to manage." — Alzheimer's Association

Good Day Respite can help.

- With locations in New London and Lebanon, Good Day Respite provides a safe, stimulating environment for persons with mild to moderate dementia or memory loss.
- Participants socialize, share stories and life experiences, enjoy music and art, engage in games and crafts...and more.

My late husband Don, who loved to kid around, always had a good time at the respite program. He often said to me on the way home, 'It was a good party!'

"Sadness melts away when you see participants smiling, singing and engaged!"
